

2,700 Students Enroll For New Semester

Approximately 2700 students enrolled at Clemson College this fall according to G. E. Metz, college registrar. This number includes 800 new freshmen and 400 veterans, 200 of whom served during the Korean conflict.

Freshmen enrolled at the college on Monday, September 5th and 6th. Students who enrolled at the beginning of the summer session reported on Tuesday. All other former students matriculated on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday and registered for classes on Friday.

All freshmen took part in the new student orientation program designed to get them off to the right start in college life and determine their preparedness in basic academic subjects. This new program included English and Mathematics placement tests, engineering and general aptitude tests, lectures by the academic deans and administrative officials, assignment to faculty counselors and various social events.

Featured in the orientation program were the major courses of study, the cadet corps, student activities, the ROTC and academic and class attendance regulations.

Between tests and lectures, the campus churches and YMCA held open house. During the week there were special tours arranged for the freshmen including the library, mess hall and the Calhoun Mansion.

On Friday night the President of the College, R. F. Poole, held open house for all the freshmen, which is a highly memorable night.

New freshmen had a choice of twenty-nine major courses in agriculture, arts and sciences, chemistry, education, engineering or textiles.

This incoming class of freshmen will be the first to use the new $275,000 cadet laundry and the $602,000 ceramic engineering building.

Tiger Brotherhood To Sponsor Fall Frolic

The first annual Campus Fall Frolic, sponsored by Tiger Brotherhood, local service fraternity, will be held Friday, September 29.

A fish supper will be served by Cowan's Seafood Kitchen of Anderson, in the college amphitheater. Tickets are on sale at $1.00. Plates will be served after 5:30.

THE FALL FROLIC will bring together the students and members of the faculty and administration for an old fashioned get-together.

Tiger Brotherhood, as a committee of the whole, is seeking to bring the faculty and students into a closer social relationship.

The menu for the supper includes fish, slaw, French fried potatoes, hush puppies, ice tea or coffee, and cake.

Members of Tiger Brotherhood will visit the barracks rooms to give students the opportunity of buying tickets.

Among the many projects made possible by this fund in the past were: the telephone at the guard room for local calls, free of charge to the students; the guest room next door to the guard room, where students may visit with parents and friends; and the paving in front of the local post office. The fraternity also selects Clemson's Mother of the Year, to be honored at the annual Mother's Day celebration each May, and provides information booths at the opening of school and at other times when visitors are on the campus.

There will be ample time for students to attend the Clemson-Georgia Tech freshman football game.

Sept. 26 Schedule Change Deadline

September 26 is the last day on which students can complete a change in their program of studies this semester if the change involves adding a new subject. Students desiring to make changes should report to room 19 Main Building, not later than September 25. October 10 is the last day on which a student can complete the process of dropping a subject without having the subject posted on his record.

College Given $180,000 Olin Foundation Grant

Fund Will Be Used To Equip Clemson College Modern Ceramic Building

CLEMSON, August 9—A grant of $180,000 has been given Clemson College by the Olin Foundation, Inc. to equip the new ceramics building, built with a $445,000 grant received from the Foundation last fall.

The 28,500 square foot teaching and research building will be filled with the most modern ceramic manufacturing and testing equipment on the market. The additional grant from the Foundation makes it possible to equip the building completely with everything from a $24,000 spectrograph to the smallest item worth only a few dollars.

INCLUDED in the building is a $35,000 pilot laboratory which is a ceramics manufacturing plant in miniature, where various ceramic materials can be taken in their raw state and made into a finished ceramic product such as brick, tile, pottery, etc. This pilot laboratory will feature the latest type tunnel kiln through which ceramic products move automatically. Also to be equipped are a $60,000 analytical laboratory with an electron microscope, an x-ray unit and a spectrograph; a $26,000 research laboratory to perform tests on ceramic electronic parts; a $26,000 laboratory for fundamental research in ceramics; a $12,000 laboratory to duplicate the process of enamel, a $10,000 laboratory to illustrate the instrumentation in ceramic plants, a 116 seat lecture room with three types of movie projectors and a camera; and general laboratories, class rooms and offices.

In addition to teaching a curriculum in ceramic engineering, members of the ceramics faculty will use the facilities of the building for extensive research in their field in order to aid in the development of the new industry. A number of courses in ceramic arts will also be offered to public school teachers during the annual summer sessions.

TO BE CALLED Olin Hall in honor of the late F. W. Olin, creator of the Olin Foundation, the new structure stands on the main quadrangle of the campus between the engineering building and the fertilizer analysis building. Constructed of reinforced steel and concrete faced with brick, it will be completely air-conditioned, except for the rooms in which kilns are located. Most of its interior walls are of colored glazed tile.

The new ceramics building is being built for $421,871, the contract price plus extras and a saving of $23,129 on the plans and specifications for which the Olin Foundation granted $445,000.

The Olin Foundation, created to aid education through the construction of educational facilities, is headed by Dr. Charles L. Horn of Minneapolis, Minn., president. Other officers are James O. Wynn of New York City, vice president and Ralph Clark of Alton, Ill., secretary-treasurer.

College Opens New Laundry

$287,000 Plant Opened Officially For School Year

Another one of the additions to the Clemson College campus is the $287,000 laundry. The student body has outgrown all of the previous buildings that have housed the student laundry and on June 20 of this year a contract was made with Daniel Construction Company for the construction of the building.

LAUNDRY services have been rendered previously in the small building now occupied by the Printing Shop. The student body outgrew this building and a shed was added along the east side.

This old building was burned in July 1914 and immediately rebuilt. The student body continued to grow and another laundry building was constructed in 1923 immediately in the rear of Barracks No. 1 so as to make it convenient to the students.

Seven years later in 1930 approximately 40 feet of basement and one story were added. In 1951 it became necessary to again add to the building. Even this latest addition was not sufficient.

THE PRESENT building represents one of the first steps in the carrying out of the building program of the immediate building program of Clemson.

The official opening of the laundry was held as noon, Monday, September 14. Mr. Walter Cox, assistant to the president presided and Frank Dillard, superintendent of the new plant gave the invocation. The colored employees of the (Continued on Page Two)

Textile Scholarship Offered To Students

The American Enka Corporation has established a fund for granting a $400 scholarship to a Clemson student each year beginning August 1, 1953. The recipient will be chosen by the Scholarship Committee from students in the junior class in textiles, on the basis of need, ability and evidence of good character. The recipient must be a citizen of the United States and students who rank in the upper half of the class will be given preference.

Any junior who believes they meet these conditions and are interested in applying for this scholarship, should contact the Dean's office in the School of Textiles to obtain further information.

Maid Of Cotton Contest To Be Held At Clemson

South Carolina's Maid of Cotton for 1954 will be selected at Clemson College in a two day elimination procedure November 4-5, sponsored through the combined effort of the cotton interests in the state from the farmers to the textile manufacturers.

John K. Cauthen, executive vice-president of the South Carolina Textile Manufacturers' Association and director of the contest, in announcing plans for the contest stated that due to its success last year at Clemson the contest would become an annual affair on the campus.

County agents all over the state have been asked to set up local committees to determine the selection of representatives from each county. The method of selection will be left up to the individual county. The state Maid of Cotton will be chosen from these county representatives at Clemson and will go on to compete for the national title in Memphis, Tennessee in January. South Carolina's 1953 Maid of Cotton is Miss Emily Wood Cox of Monticello.

The county maids must meet certain specifications. They must be between 19 and 25 years of age as of January 1, 1954, not less than five feet, five inches tall, unmarried, a native of a cotton producing state and a resident of South Carolina for a short period of time.

In addition to the routine interviews and judging, the contest at Clemson will include a parade by the Clemson cadet corps, the various dinners and luncheons, the final elimination in the college field house to be open to the public, and the Cotton Ball for the contestants, their escorts and invited guests.

Each county maid will have an escort chosen from the cadet corps who will accompany her to all of the functions on the campus.

The panel of judges to pick the state winner at Clemson will be announced later along with details of the contest.

Seventeen Frosh Attend Y.M.C.A. Pre-School Camp

Seventeen freshmen spent the week-end of September 5, 6 at Camp Greenville with representatives of the Clemson YMCA. The group was met at the "Y" by Mr. Holtzendorff, General Secretary of the local "Y" and several of the cabinet members and were then taken up to Camp Greenville near Caesars Head.

Before leaving for the camp the freshmen were welcomed by Lamar Neville, President of the YMCA. After this Col. Read of the commandants office, Mr. Metz of the Registrars Office, and Mr. Cloaninger, Vice-Chairman of the YMCA advisory board were introduced. Each made a brief comment to the group.

Activities at the camp included a series of talks, worship services, and recreation. Phillip Porcher oriented the students on freshman work and YMCA activities. Jerry Hammet and Lamar Neville introduced them to the Y programs, church organizations and cabinet organization. Joe O'Carin, Rev. M. C. Allen, Mr. Cooper and Mr. Holtzendorff led the group in the worship services and International Sunday school lesson. Campus organizations and community activities were presented by Robert Tinsley and Tom Bookhart respectively, with Mr. Bookhart summing up the role of the YMCA at Clemson.

The freshmen who attended the camp were Lewis Cromer, Greenwood; William DuBose, Darlington; Lewis Nance, Galivants Ferry; Walter Calcutt, Pamlico; John Houser, Bishopville; Weston New, Greenville; Mack Roger, Waxhaw, N. C.; Jim Wiggins, Arlington, Va.; Thurmond McLamb, Little River; Robert Randall, Laurens; John Rogers, Florence; Basil McGirt, Columbia; Bennie Platt, Ocean Drive; William Turner, Dover, N. J.; Robert Bryson, Woodruff; Larry Lanier, Savannah, Ga.; and Charles Clark, Pamlico.

School Has Begun--- Plan Your Time Wisely

WE have been back at Clemson for less than a week but we realize that school has really begun. But have we really started?

It is hard to adjust ourselves to the "old grind" after a wonderful summer's vacation. How we prepare ourselves these first few weeks will greatly reflect how our reports will look at the end of the semester.

Some experts say college students must study at least 25 hours a week, a figure based upon an average college student's class load. However, this amount of time is not the important thing. It is the way in which the time is spent. Good students do not study any more than the poor students. They use their time more effectively.

Some of us fall into the habit of "cramming." This would be entirely unnecessary if we reviewed notes taken during lecture periods at least once a week. Besides taking notes during lectures, notes summarizing textbook assignments, and extra reading are helpful aids in making the subject matter easier to understand.

Mental quizzes on probable questions the professor may ask are also helpful.

Plan your time. Don't be a bookworm and yet don't neglect your studies.

A Freshman's View Of The Orientation Program

WHEN we freshmen left home Sunday and Monday, September 6th and 7th, we knew that we were taking a big step in our lives, if not the biggest. All of us hated to leave home so early, or earlier than most schools around.

Leaving home with the family car full, we started the big step. We had no idea of what we were stepping into, except we had heard of an orientation program, we headed straight for Clemson and this week-long program of which we knew nothing. What in the world could a program like this do to us or for us?

Arriving at Clemson, we found for the first time the familiar line system. Lines for everything. And we had to go through every one of them. Most of the days and nights were spent in lines, no doubt.

During the days, we took placement tests to determine courses. These awakened us some, to the fact that we weren't so smart, but at night we found very different programs. We learned that we were to be soldiers, we learned how to get permits, we learned regulations, and we also found out what was expected of us as cadets. We found friendship in the churches and helpful hands from our advisors. Finally we got our class assignments and found out that this college life is going to be a 24-hour-a-day job.

Throughout the week we had found out basically what we needed to know about college, what to expect, and why a certain thing is done a certain way. After a week of preparation here at Clemson, we freshmen are ready to take the big step, the step into life, our future. This one week in our short lifetime may mean the difference between finishing college and dropping out along the way. We will never be able to evaluate how much better off we were to have had this week to look over the ground we are to place our feet on.

Another Year Begins For Clemson; Freshmen Are Showing Great Spirit

By Carroll Moore

CONGRATULATIONS ON THE SPIRIT, FROSH

First, I would like to put in a plug for the some 800 bald-headed students on the campus realize the importance of the spirit of the school spirit that they have been showing during the first week of this school session. Whether you new arrivals to the campus realize the importance of the spirit of the students, I don't know, but ask any upperclassman what it means to the school. The cheers and singing in the mess hall and in the barracks, the practice of speaking to everyone you meet, showing respect to upperclassmen and giving good "Rat service," are all old Clemson traditions. Keep it up and it will be more fun and you and the school will benefit by it.

As for the upperclassmen, I believe that the freshmen are off to a good start—the cadre did a good job in getting them acquainted with the traditions at Clemson—so it's up to us to keep them on the right track and at the same time keep Clemson alive.

LET'S SIT TOGETHER

This Saturday night marks the opening of a new football season here at Clemson and at the same time gives many new students a chance to see college football for the first time. It has always been a custom at Clemson for the cadet corps to sit together in a section marked off for them and join in the yells and fun during the game. During the past couple of seasons the cheerleaders have organized a card section which proved very successful. They want to put on an even better show for the home games this season but without the help of the student body the idea will fold. Since the P. C. game is a night game, the card section will not be used, but it will be used for the rest of the games. Sit together and yell!

GIVE US YOUR IDEAS

Again, I would like to remind the upperclassmen and let the freshman know just what this page is for. It is for your benefit and we, the TIGER staff, urge you to bring us your ideas or complaints and let us put them into print so that the "Higher-Ups" may see the way that the students feel about a certain situation. If any student, especially the freshman, feels that he knows some need on the campus that would benefit the school and the students or if anyone doesn't like the way certain regulations are being carried out and feel that it is bad for the school, bring the suggestion or complaint to the TIGER office and we will be glad to weigh out your feelings and put them into print. This is your newspaper and we are here to print what the student body wishes. Again I say, take advantage of the "Freedom of the Press".

PARKING SITUATION CRITICAL BUT . . . TO OUR ADVANTAGE

Everyone seems to be griping about the parking situation that has come up this semester. I'll readily admit that it is a mess at the present time, but I hope the students will try to realize that all of this renovation on the campus is being done for us and that it is only right that we comply with the rules and regulations that are being set up on the parking situation. I think that the change for the penalty for parking violations from 10 demerits to a sum not exceeding ten dollars was a wise move and should have been done sooner. Last year there were always a few students that didn't seem to mind pulling their car into the parking lot and blocking another car or two. These students will think twice before pulling an act like that this year with the money situation involved in the violation.

Take this advice if you own a car, park only in the prescribed places, don't block other cars, and don't complain; the administration is doing all they can to help the students.

GET YOUR TICKETS

Students are reminded that if they wish to obtain tickets for their parents or friends for any of the football games, they had better move fast. Tickets are on sale in the field house for all the games except the State Fair Classic.

Policies Governing THE TIGER

The college newspaper is a unique institution. In some respects it is like the newspaper operated as a private enterprise, having many of the same objectives and traditions. In other respects, however, it differs. The Tiger, like the newspapers of most other colleges, must take into account these special conditions:

1. It enjoys a monopoly in its field by virtue of grants of authority from both the college and the student body. Having a monopoly in the publication of student news, it cannot represent any single group or single opinion, but must take into account all groups and all opinions.
2. In the sense that the college acts as the collection agency for the Tiger and requires by official action that every student support it, the paper becomes a least a semi-official function of the college.
3. Bearing the official approval of both college and student body, each issue of the Tiger will necessarily reflect credit or discredit upon both the institution and the students. By contrast, the private newspaper is a direct reflection only upon its owners and staff.
4. The management of the Tiger, unlike the management of private newspapers, is elected. The management, therefore, acts as temporary custodian. But while being in temporary control, its actions have a bearing upon the financial stability and reputation of the paper during future administration.

It can be readily seen that the management, upon election, does not become sovereign—that is, it does not have supreme authority. It is responsible to the student body and the college jointly: the Publications Board, representing both, has been set up as the instrument of this authority. The Board's responsibility does not involve one of detailed supervision day by day, but it does mean that the Board is responsible for setting up fundamental policies of operation, and that the management of the paper is responsible to the Board for putting into effect such policies.

In its sphere the Tiger can be operated as a laboratory providing practical opportunities for experience in the techniques of journalism, and at the same time as an experience in the operation of a vital democratic institution. The extent to which freedom is granted necessarily depends upon the degree to which student management develops a realistic sense of responsibility.

The following policies are minimum essentials in the conduct of the paper:

1. In all its phases, news, editorial and business, the paper should be conducted so as to reflect credit upon the college as an institution and upon the student body.
2. The principles of sound business practice, recognizing the fact that the Tiger is a permanent not a temporary enterprise, should be followed.
3. Recognized principles of journalism ethics should be followed, including these practices:
 - A. The paper should be edited in a spirit of tolerance, restraint and good will, both in its attitude toward persons off the campus and on it.
 - B. Recognizing the fact that it has circulation off the campus, care should be taken to follow standards of good taste. Vulgar, coarse and uncouth expressions have no place in it.
 - C. In news coverage, the views of every person or group involved should be expressed without partisanship.
 - D. In any news story or editorial involving criticism or implications of criticism against the administration of the college, the official involved should have an opportunity to state his or her position and such matter should be included in the particular news story or editorial.
- (There is nothing unusual about this provision; it is an inviolate policy of every reputable newspaper and press association.)
- E. The editor shall be held responsible for avoiding libelous statements.
- F. All letters to the editor which are printed should be signed by the author.

GEN. DEICHELMANN PRAISES ARMY M. S. PROFESSORS

High praise for the professors of military science and tactics in the universities throughout the nation have been received by the Department of the Army from Brigadier General M. K. Deichelmann, commander of the Air University Headquarters, Air Force ROTC.

The letter from Gen. Deichelmann to the Commanding General of the Air University, was occasioned by the prompt manner in which Army personnel handled requests from Army ROTC personnel for their transfer to Air Force ROTC. The letter was forwarded by the Air University commanding general to the Department of the Army in Washington, and a copy of it has just been received from Washington by Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general, Third Army.

General Deichelmann's letter in full follows:

"During the present academic year this headquarters has received through Army channels a number of requests from Army ROTC cadets to transfer to Air Force ROTC for the purpose of ultimately entering a form of flight training. The cooperation of the Army in approving and processing these requests has indicated their understanding of the urgent requirement for aircrew personnel.

Clemson School Of Architecture Fully Accredited

The National Architectural Board has placed the Clemson College Department of Architecture on the 1953-54 list of accredited schools of architecture.

Since its beginning forty-two years ago the Clemson Department of Architecture has graduated over four hundred students, many of whom have remained in South Carolina and form a large majority of the architects participating in the state.

Architecture was introduced at Clemson in 1911 by Professor Rudolph E. Lee. At the time he was a teacher of mechanical drawing. He built the department up through the years until his retirement in 1948 after 31½ years of service to the college. He was succeeded by Professor John H. Gates, a graduate of Yale, under whose guidance the department has gained a national reputation in design competition.

The present architectural faculty under Professor Gates is composed of ten members, most of whom have or are working towards graduate degrees.

For the past five years Clemson architectural students have done exceptionally well in national design competitions including the famous Paris Prize completion.

Last year the award was won by a Clemson graduate, E. H. Shirley of Greenville.

Major Boucher Assumes Fort Jackson Duties

Major George H. Boucher, a former member of the Clemson College Military Staff, has assumed duties as Troop Information and Education Officer at Fort Jackson.

Major Boucher graduated from Clemson in 1934, and saw 20 months service overseas in World War II. He also served 10 months in Korea and is a holder of the Bronze Star Medal.

He was an instructor in Freshman Army ROTC during his duty at Clemson.

Applications will be accepted until further notice and must be filed with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Application forms may be obtained from the Commission's Washington office or from a civil service regional office.

The Commission Of Civil Service Will Hold Exam

Examinations have been announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission for Cartographer, Cartographic Aid, Cartographic Technician, and Cartographic Draftsman, for filling positions in various Federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity. Tigers Open '53 Season Against P. C. On Saturday

By FRANK ANDERSON

FALL 1953—CLEMSON FOOTBALL—WHAT'LL IT BE?

On Saturday night, September 19, the Clemson Memorial Stadium will once again be the scene of football U.S.A. The orange and purple clad Howardmen will match stamina and skill with the Presbyterian Blue Stockings.

What will the Bengals do this year? That is a debatable question. The Tigers are completely changing and perhaps improving their football setup.

One of the big steps in the changing of Tiger football is the switch from two platoons to one platoon football. This change is taking place in all football camps affiliated with the NCAA. From this standpoint, the Tigers won't be any more handicapped than their opponents. When I say handicapped, I mean new to this policy of having one player to play both offense and defense.

Starting back with the high school career of many of the gridmen, brings to light the fact that perhaps the majority played either defense or offense. The players who have had only one platoon experience have to learn either to play offense or defense as the case may be. They may be a perfectionist on one aspect of the game of football, but now, to the player, there are two aspects of the game—both offense and defense. This is what Coach Howard has been trying to teach the Bengal footballers since the first of spring practice. Some of the players are having trouble learning the new game of football, while others are picking up their new job as easily as they comprehend the signals given them while on one platoon duty. All of the Tiger's competition is confronted with this same problem, so this shouldn't hold the Bengals back too much.

Problem number two for the Clemsonians is the shift over from the single wing offense which they have been successful with for so many years to the split "T" formation. After learning how to perfect plays with one formation for so long, it is quite a problem to switch over to another formation so abruptly and get the same effect. On the single wing the players knew what they were doing but with this new formation other problems arise which must be coped with.

The Tiger coaches and players are very conscientious of these obstacles which have arisen this season. The average fan perhaps does not realize the difficulty in completely revamping a team.

WHO TO WATCH AND WHERE TO WATCH THEM

At the end position the Bengals are strong as far as the first team goes, but that is about all. Dreher Gaskins, giant flankman from Orangeburg, will be playing right end. For the past two seasons Dreher has been injured at the first of the season. This disabled him for both of these seasons. In 1950 the big Tiger end played defense on the Orange Bowl eleven. Playing opposite Dreher at left end will be Scott Jackson. Jackson played as a regular last year and in some games both on offense and defense.

White, Gressette, Inabinat, and Mattos look like the best prospects at guard for the Tigers. White, Mattos and Gressette all are lettermen and Inabinat was a leader on last year's frosh eleven.

The Tiger guards are perhaps the weakest and most inexperienced men on the squad. Joe LaMontague and Nolen Hildebrand are at the head of the list at present. Looking strong at this position also is Buck Priester and Ormond Wild.

Wingo Avery, a sophomore, in eligibility and Andy Smalls, a senior, look like the best center prospects for the 1953 season. Right behind Avery and Smalls are Bill McClellan and Hampton Hunter. Hunter has played every position in the line and has just recently been shifted to center to strengthen that position.

At quarterback will be Don King, from Anderson, South Carolina. As a freshman last year, King took Billy Hair's place when Hair was injured. Another sophomore showing up well at this position is Tommy Williams. Pooley Hubert and Forrest Calvert are also looking good at the quarterback slot.

The left halfbacks will be led by Jimmy Wells of Columbia, South Carolina. Up until this year Wells was just a so-so player for the Tigers, but with the switch to the split T formation the Columbian has come into his own. Buck George, who has played as a regular for the past two seasons on offense, will also strengthen this position.

Ken Moore and Billy O'Dell look like the best right half back prospects at present. Moore played one year of ball for Clemson and then went into the Marines, playing two years of service ball. Last year Ken played defense for the Tigs. O'Dell, on the varsity last year as a frosh, did not get too much experience because he was running in the fullback slot behind durable Red Whitten.

Lawrence Gressette, Crimmins Hankinson, and Red Whitten will be carrying most of the load at fullback this year. All of them are included here because of their lack of experience on either offense or defense.

UNWRITTEN FACTS ABOUT THE TIGGERS

Joe Bowen of Villa Rica, Ga., and Tommy Williams of Paris, S. C., running second team end and quarterback respectively, were not known to Coach Howard and his staff this time last year.

Clemson's first two elevens are composed of nine sophomores, seven juniors and six seniors. There are sophs at every position among the first two teams except fullback, left halfback, and right tackle.

Andy Smalls was taken out of the Tiger lineup in 1951 due to arthritis and was told that he would never don a football uniform again. Well, this year Andy is the hardest hitting linebacker on the Tiger squad.

B. C. Inabinet, giant tackle of the Clemson squad, measures up to 6-6 and weighs 260. This makes B. C. the biggest man in the newly formed Atlantic Coast Conference.

Predictions Of Major Football Games In South

By BOB WHEELER AND ROGER YIKE

The sports staff of the Tiger will now go out on a limb and make several predictions concerning football games to be played by some of the Tiger opponents, members of the new Atlantic Coast Conference and several games of interest in the southeastern part of the U. S.

Duke—Carolina: The Duke Blue Devils, led by Worth Lutz should prove too much for Carolina's five All-Staters. The Gamecocks should lose this one about 27-13.

Clemson—Presbyterian: This should be an early season "breather" for the home-town boys. Clemson is slated to take this one by about five TD's. Clemson 43—P. C. 6.

Wake Forest—William & Mary: The Deacs should be able to register victory number one in this game. Wake Forest 21—William & Mary 12.

Maryland—Missouri: The Terrapins will be without the services of All-American Jack Scarbath and standout tackle Dick Modzelewski this season. However, the boys from Maryland still have enough power to send the Tigers from Missouri home in defeat. The Terrapins 29—Missouri 14.

Ga. Tech—Davidson: The Yellow Jackets have enough power to take the Wildcats by about eight touchdowns. Ga. Tech 54—Davidson 7.

Tulane—Citadel: The boys from Charleston are definitely out of their class in meeting the Tulane eleven. The Bulldogs of Citadel are slated to lose by at least three touchdowns. In respect to the home state boys, we'll pick Tulane by only 26 points. Tulane 33—Citadel 7.

The rest of the games this week are supposed to run a little like this.

Furman will muster plenty of power in downing Newberry. Rice should take Florida. Villanova will stay on the victory trail by defeating Georgia. Alabama will triumph over Mississippi Southern and Mississippi will take Chattanooga.

2 Clemson Men Attend Large AIBS Meeting

G. W. Armstrong and J. K. Armstrong, South Carolina Experiment Station and USDA, Clemson, S. C., were more than the more than 1,000 scientists from colleges, universities, and research foundations throughout America and 20 other nations who presented papers at the annual convention of the American Institute of Biological Science (AIBS) held during the past week at the University of Wisconsin here.

Both presented papers on Physiologic Races of the Wild Fusaria from Cabbage, Radish, and Stock, and Caryophyllaceae Susceptible to the Carnation-Wilt Fungus.

The four-day scientific program, the major event each year for some 4,000 biologists from North, Central, and South America and parts of Europe, include more than 1,000 research papers presented by biologists reporting the progress of their work, and more than 20 symposia at which leading biologists discussed the chief problems faced by the biological scientists in many fields both in fundamental investigations and in practical applications.

The AIBS is an organization bringing together 27 professional scientific societies, and represents the effort of biologists to keep their subject as unified as possible despite the special fields in which it is broken down for research and teaching purposes.

Attending the AIBS meeting were some of the world's leading workers in the fields of physiology, plant disease, horticulture, ichthyology, natural history, parasitology, taxonomy, ecology, genetics, development and growth, limnology and oceanography, anatomy, mammalogy, evolution, and other special biological studies.

One Platoon, Split "T" To be Tested by Tigers

"Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness," there the Tigers play, and another season of sports commences at Clemson. On Saturday night the Country Gentlemen open their schedule with the traditional tussel with Presbyterian College. This game has always been a proving ground for both teams, and usually results in a bang-up ball game.

Both teams are in the building stage, and will have many wrinkles to iron out in both offense and defense. The Blue Hose will bring a 36 man squad to Clemson, which shows that they lack depth. However, every position except two will be filled by returning lettermen from last year. Harry Hamilton of Seneca will lead the concentrated passing attack against the Tigers. He threw one touchdown pass against the powerful Clemson defense last year, and will be a dangerous man on the field. Bobby Jackson, Ted Howie, Charles Twitty, and Joe Counts will be main targets for Hamilton's tossing this year. The backfield will be fairly consistent, but the forward wall is the big question mark.

This year will bring about a big change at Clemson. After a quarter of a century of running from the single-wing formation, the Tigers will switch to the Split-T this season. This fact will be a very deciding factor in the won-lost column this year. It takes considerable practice to obtain a smooth working T, but the Tigers are very fortunate in having several players who are familiar with the Split-T.

Don King, the Anderson flash, will quarterback the team. He looked excellent in spring drills and is continuing the fine work in the fall workouts. Forrest Calvert and Pooley Hubert follow King in the quarterback slot. The two end positions are securely nailed down by veterans Dreher Gaskin and Scott Jackson. They play on offense and defense equally well and Gaskin has been considered the best defensive end in Clemson history. Nathan Gressette and Clyde White, weighing 225 apiece, have seen action as regulars on both offense and defense. Joe LaMontague, a regular offensive guard, showed a lot of promise on defense in the spring. Defensive Center Andy Smalls is working hard on his offensive play. These gridmen will provide most of the tough opposition for the enemy in the forward wall.

There is still considerable work ahead of the backfield on defense. Buck George, Bill O'Dell, and "Red" Whitten are having a rough time with their tackling and pass defense, but all three should show much improvement as the season progresses. At the end of spring drills the best all-round backs, besides King, were Jimmy Wells and Kenneth Moore at the halfbacks and Crimmins Hankinson and Lawrence Gressette at fullback.

The depth of the team will depend on how fast the many sophomores learn the new formation. On the line Joe Bowen, Walt Laraway, B. C. Inabinet, Hampton Hunter, Wingo Avery, and John Greene are rated highly by the coaches. Tommy Williams, "Shot" Rogers, Joe Pagliei, Doug Thompson, Buddy Helton, and O'Dell will be carrying their share of the backfield chores with a little more experience.

The last time that Presbyterian beat Clemson was in 1943, but that doesn't mean they couldn't do it anytime again. The one-platoon ruling now in effect and the new Split-T formation for Clemson will make some difference in an usually decisive game. It should be a good game, and since it is the first game of the season the whole student body should turn out to cheer their team on to victory.

Freshman Football Candidates Display Plenty of Hustle

The Clemson College freshman football team will open its 1953 season next Friday night when they meet the Georgia Tech 'B' team here at Clemson Memorial Stadium.

The baby Tigers have some of the best freshman material assembled in a good many years. The line is fast and heavy and the backs can give any team a run for their money.

The freshmen have been practicing since the first of September under the direction of Coaches Banks McFadden and "Rock" Norman. These two versatile mentors are currently being assisted by some members of last year's varsity squad.

There are approximately 47 men now running through practice drills every afternoon in preparation for their opening tilt.

Some of the best football talent in the Carolinas is now here at Clemson. Such high school standouts as Billy Hudson, Willie Smith, Hugh Eichelberger, H. B. Bruerton, Ephie Seabrook, and Kent Monroe are in the forward wall for the frosh. The backs are currently being led by Jim Coleman, Billy Tuttle, Joel Wells, and Frank Griffith. All of these players are from South Carolina.

The starting lineup for the Baby Bengals will probably run something like this. The ends will be held down by Billy Hudson and Willie Smith, two massive lads with plenty of hustle.

The tackle posts will be held down by Hugh Eichelberger and Bruce Schaefer or Bill Toth. All of these men weigh over 200 pounds and can open up holes big enough to drive a truck through.

The center of the line will be strengthened by guards H. B. Bruerton and Ephie Seabrook and center Kent Monroe.

The speedy group of backs will find either Charlie Bussey, Jim Coleman or Larry Frick at the helm. All of these quarterbacks have shown up well in the pre-season scrimmages. The halfbacks will have to fight it out for a starting assignment along with Joel Wells. The fullback will probably be Frank Griffith.

Y.M.C.A Cabinet Begins Activities For School Year

The YMCA Cabinet began its '53-'54 school year Monday night by formally initiating its most important service project.

The cabinet, in cooperation with the YMCA and the various councils, will begin the traditional evening watch groups next week and also the 'Y' Handbook will be distributed to each cadet and to faculty members.

In addition to this the Freshman council has been organized and its officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Evening Watch is a short devotional period which is conducted by company representatives in the company area immediately following long roll. This year's programs will usually follow a systematic order and be limited to a maximum of fifteen minutes.

These forum leaders will help any cadet in any way in which he can. Turn out and support the evening watch services.

Tiger's Opponents Rated High On Pre-Season Predictions

When the curtain rises on the 1953 edition of the Clemson Tigers, we will find the Tigs facing one of the toughest schedules in the history of the sport here at Clemson.

The opening game of the 1953 gridiron season finds the Tigers facing the Presbyterian College eleven here at the Clemson Memorial Stadium.

The Blue Hose of P. C. are going through the same rebuilding period that the Tigers are now experiencing. However, their three-year record of the past season will probably be improved if Coach Lonnie McMillan's 15 returning lettermen come through in their expected form.

P. C.'s southpaw quarterback, Harry Hamilton, will probably be the key man for the Blue Hose. Two big ends, Bobby Jackson and Joe Counts, will try to make up for the loss of standout Joe Kirven.

In the second game against Boston College the Tigs will run up against a heavy team composed of 19 lettermen. Coach Mike Holovak will also have about 50% of his squad composed of members of last year's unbeaten freshmen team.

The Eagles will be able to depend on their best backs of the past two years, Quarterback Jimmy Kane and halfback Joe Johnson. Quarterback Kane is an exceptionally accurate pass thrower.

The "best forward wall in a decade" will provide the power to break the fast Eagle backs into the open. This large contingent of heavy linemen is described as "plenty deep in strength."

One of the top teams in the country will face the Tigs in their third gridiron appearance of the '53 season. They will come face to face with the powerful charges of Maryland's Coach, Jim Tatum.

The Terrapins will find themselves with the services of All-Americans Jack Scarbath and Dick Modzelewski. However, their forward wall will be bolstered by such stalwarts as Bob Morgan and Stanley Jones, at the tackle slots and Herb Hoffman in the guard position.

The backs will probably be led by Bernie Faloney, who is supposed to fill the quarterback post vacated by Scarbath, and halfback Chet Hanulak, who is described by Coach Tatum as "the best I've seen since I've been at Maryland."

Miami, Clemson's playmate in the Orange and Gator Bowl games of 1950 and 1951, is beginning to round into shape again. The Hurricanes have been rebuilding and are expected to field a strong team during the coming season.

Coach Andy Gustafson will start an eleven that is rich in material at quarterback and end. It is likely that the Hurricanes will concentrate on their passing game as much—if not more—than their running.

The boys to watch for Miami will be quarterback Don James and ends Frank McDonald, Tom Pepsin, Bob Nolan, and Jim Larussa. They will probably have a lot to do with Miami's offensive game.

The Tigers will really have their hands full when they tackle the South Carolina Gamecocks on "Big Thursday."

The Gamecocks will have five All-Staters among their 25 returning lettermen. Coach Rex Enright has the potential for producing one of the best teams in his 13 year career as head mentor of the Carolina boys.

The Gamecocks will be led by their quintet of stars, end, Clyde Bennett, guard, Frank Mineovich, center, Leon Cunningham, quarterback, Johnny Gramling and halfback, Gene Wilson. These All-Staters will be backed by such stalwarts as Bob King, Bobby Drawdy, Joe DeFore, Bill Wohrman and Dean

Livingston. The Gamecocks defeated the Tigers last year on an aerial from Gramling to Wilson.

The Deamon Deacons from Wake Forest will come to the Clemson Memorial Stadium on October 31 for their game with the Tigs. This game is also expected to be a tough game along the victory route for the Tigs.

The Deacons will be able to put one of the strongest backfields in the conference on the field against the Tigers. The material in the line, however, will be new except for the two returning ends.

Quarterback Sonny George, halfbacks Bruce Hilderbrand and Billy Churn and fullback Jim Bland are returning backs from last year. These lettermen, along with a strong sophomore line, should give the Deacons enough scoring potential to make the Tiger-Deacon game one of the best of the season.

In their seventh encounter, the Tigs will journey to Atlanta, Ga., for a game with the powerful Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets.

Proposed School Will Be Named For Dr. Daniel

D. Leon McCormac, superintendent of Pickens County School District A, has announced that the proposed new White high school for the Calhoun-Clemson, Central and Six Mile areas is to be named for the former Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences of Clemson College, Dr. D. W. Daniel. The school is to be called the D. W. Daniel High School.

Mr. McCormac, along with the chairman of the district, visited the home of Dr. Daniel in Clemson to notify the educator and orator of the name in selection.

Dr. Daniel said simply after hearing the decision, "It's more than I deserve."

Plans are now being drawn up for the new high school plant which is said to be in the price range of $500,000. The 16 room building is to be erected on a 37-acre tract in the Lawrence Chapel section of Pickens County. Plans are designed to take care of 550 to 600 students.

Besides the 16 rooms, the school is slated to include a cafeteria, gymnasium, auditorium, industrial arts shop, agriculture shop, science laboratories, library, home economics room, first aid room, teacher's lounges, offices, and other facilities.

The home of Dr. Daniel at Mt. Gallagher, in Laurens County, is where he began his long service record in the teaching field.

Dr. Daniel received his degree from Wofford College. After several years experience, he became the head of Hebron High School in Marlboro County, Central High School in Pickens County and Batesburg Institute before joining the faculty of Clemson College in 1898.

While at Clemson he served as assistant professor of English, professor of English and as dean of the school of arts and sciences. After retiring in 1940 he taught seven years without pay for the regular sessions, as no funds were available.

Dr. Graham Added To Dairy Dept. Staff

Dr. D. M. Graham, associate in dairying, has been appointed by the South Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station to do research in the dairy products field.

Graham received his B. S. degree in dairy manufacturing from Mississippi State. He won a scholarship from the Dairy Industries Supply Association as a member

Prof. McGarity Introduces New Music Course

Clemson College has extended its music activities to include such courses as class piano, theory, and methods courses for elementary classroom teachers. Clemson is one of the first institutions of higher learning in the South to offer group piano instruction to its students.

One of the principal objectives of this course is the performance of music for group singing. The materials and methods course, designed for the in-service teacher, will be given every Saturday morning during the fall semester.

This work will be offered by Mr. Hugh H. McGarity, associate professor of music, who has returned to the campus after a two-year leave of absence while working toward his Ph. D. degree in music at Florida State University.

Singing Conclave Held In Chapel

Approximately 1,200 people attended the Five-County Singing Convention held in the college chapel September 6. An all day sing, a picnic lunch, and the election of officers were the main events of the conclave.

Lowell Barnett of Clemson was elected president succeeding Arthur Harper of Williamston. J. C. Galloway, also of Clemson, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The sound of tapping feet were heard all over the chapel, as gospel quartets sang the old songs and new jazzed up arrangements. The Ambassadors from Cleveland, Tennessee, the Harper Quartet from Williamston and the Bright Star from Anderson were some of the many groups taking part in the big event.

TIGER'S OPPONENTS

in virtually all pre-season listings. They will be minus a number of standouts from their unbeaten squad of the past season but will still have All-American Leon Hardeman and Larry Morris to bolster their squad.

The Yellow Jackets appear to have as much offensive punch as they had last year, and assuming mastermind Dodd can get his boys playing both on offense and defense, he'll probably win as many games as he did in '32.

Possibly the easiest encounter on the Tiger schedule will be The Citadel Bulldogs. This game will be number eight for the Tigers and will be played in Charleston, on November 14.

Unless Coach Johnny McMillan can find some strong offensive players to make up for the loss of Buddy Freidlin and Paul Chapman, he will probably have to rely heavily on his defensive game.

The Citadel squad is light and fast, however, and could give some teams a tough time. Halfback

This season will probably be a tough one for the Tigers of Clemson, but the student body can be depended upon to back the Tigs in victory or defeat.

Bufort Blanton and quarterback Bubba Williams are the only bright spots in the Bulldog lineup.

The Tigers will wind up their 1933 campaign against Auburn here on November 21. This should also be a good game for the spectators.

The Plainsmen have a squad that will be composed of a large number of freshmen and sophomores. To back this group will be such outstanding backs as Vince Dooley and Bobby Freeman, guard Ed Duncan and few other returning from last year's squad.
